A BURGLAR SWINGS.

THE GALLOWS IN FAYETTEVILE ON YESTERDAY.

Lee the Colored Burglar hanged---His Confession of the Crime---A Large Crowd.

Special Telegram to the News.

FAYETTEVILE, N. C., May 9.—Richard Lee, colored, was hanged for burglary here to-day, at one thirty-five, p. m., by sheriff R. W. Hardie. He acknowledged his guilt on the scaffold. A large crowd witnessed the execution. His confession will be published. This is the first execution that has taken place here in eighteen years.

A strong effort was made to secure a commutation of Lee's death sentence, and a petition was forwarded to the Governor praying mercy, but this was offset by another petition for the full vindication of the law; that Lee was a desperate character, and his release or possible release would spread terror in this community again. The sentiment of the people was thus publicly confirmed when Lee made a free and unreserved confession of his crime. The affair has created much talk in the county, and the confession will be read with much interest. C.

Congress.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—HOUSE.—Immediately after reading the Journal the Speaker proceeded to call committees for the reports of a private nature.

SENATE.—The Senate passed, with an amendment, the House bill providing the payment of money heretofore appropriated to James B. Eads and his associates for constructions, jetties and other works at the South Pass, Mississippi.

The consideration of the prohibiting of military interference at elections was then resumed.

Senator Edmunds spoke on the bill before taking the vote. Considerable excitement was manifested. Senators Blaine and Chandler both spoke. The latter made a bitter speech, saying, in the course of his remarks, that he and his party believed that twelve Senators, on the Democratic side, held seats fraudulently, and yet it was proposed to oust Kellogg who was justly entitled to the senatorship. The bill was afterwards passed by a vote of 33 to 25.

Ice House Burned.

HUDSON, N. Y., May 9.—The Knickerbocker Company's ice house, three miles below Athens, was burned. The loss is $25,000. Incendiary.

To be Represented.

BOSTON, May 9.—It is stated that the Harvard students have decided to send an "eight" to represent them at the American Henly to take place at Saratoga July 9th, 10th and 11th.

The Advent Minister Menaced.

COHASSET NARROWS, MASS., May 9.—The advent minister, Charles Brown, is announced to address the Pocasset adventists on Saturday. The people threaten to tar and feather him and ride him on a rail.

The Strikers to be Paid Off.

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, May 9.—A detachment of the local militia under command of Col. Osborne Smith, left here yesterday and arrived at Cross Lake at 6 p. m. They took four days' rations and one hundred rounds of ammunition to each man. Mr. Whitehead sent a large sum of money to pay off the strikers. The general impression is that no serious trouble need be feared, unless caused through misapprehension by men who may object to the presence of the military.

Liverpool Cotton Broker's Circular.

LIVERPOOL, May 9.—This week's circular of the Liverpool Cotton Broker's Association says: The cotton market was animated throughout the week with a large business, although quieter; on Thursday the quotations were markedly advanced, and the current qualities advanced ¼d. Sea Island was in good general demand, and with a limited supply, advanced a half-penny to a penny. Cotton for future delivery was strong and active until Tuesday, when it advanced ¼d; on Wednesday and Thursday, with considerable desire to sell, they declined 3-16d. The final rates show an advance of 3-16d.

The Silver Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The House was principally engaged in discussing the Silver Bill. Senator Williams of Kentucky to-day introduced a joint resolution to make the appropriation of March 31st, '77, of $375,000 for the payment of ante-bellum Southern mail contractors practically available. It being tied up by a treasury ruling to await the presentation of all such claims and the determination of the percentage that should be paid to each claimant. It proposes to direct the Secretary of the Treasury to proceed to pay to contractors or their legal representatives, such sums as the postoffice department certificates may prove to be due them respectively; provided that no payment shall be made to any contractor without satisfactory proof that he has not already been paid by the Confederate States.

Indictment of Commissioners and Ex-President of Indian Affairs.

NEW YORK, May 9th, 1879.—E. A. Hayt, Commissioner of Indian Affairs and ex-President of the International Trust Company, of Jersey City, with F. D. Karrand, C. M. Field and other officers of the company have been indicted by the grand jury of Hudson county, N. J., for publishing a statement of affairs of the company which the bill alleges they well know to be false, and which was published with intent to induce persons to entrust their money with the corporation. The Trust Company failed last year owing depositors over $177,000. Hayt yesterday pleaded not guilty, and declares that the prosecution is incited by political motives. The Times say, however, the grand jury which indicted him was drawn by a Republican sheriff, and that the other members of the board of trustees were not indicted, because they were not active in directing its operations, and probably knew nothing of the way in which its business was managed.

THE PHILADELPHIA TRAGEDY.

Further Particulars of the Murder of Mrs. Irvin by Her Father.

PHILADELPHIA, May 7.—The murder of Mrs. Susan Irvin, yesterday, by her father, Edward Parr, was investigated by the coroner this morning, and attracted a great crowd of people. The prisoner, who is about 60 years old, manifested no concern during the proceedings. He has recently been liberated from Joliet prison, Illinois, where he served out a sentence of five years. He was an extremely violent character, and when out of prison threatened the lives of various members of his family, and kept them in continual terror. Par and his son-in-lawe , Susan Irvin's husband, have frequently had each other arrested, and at the time of the murder Irvin was undergoing a term of imprisonment for burglary, on the information of Parr, who had himself been imprisoned for an attempt to kill Irvin. The testimony adduced to-day shows the murder to have been coolly premeditated. Upon Parr's appearance at the house where the murder occurred, Mrs. Irvin fled up stairs and bolted the door. Parr, following, broke down the door, and the woman took refuge in a closet, from which she was dragged by her father and hacked to death with a shoemaker's knife. The jury after a short deliberation, found a verdict that death was the result of stabs inflicted by Parr, and he was committed to await the action of the district attorney. The prisoner makes no denial of his guilt, but claims that he acted on the impulse of sudden passion.

Camden.

Elizabeth City Economist.

A boy in Camden last week broke his leg while "playing coon." You know what playing coon is, don't you? It takes three boys. One boy climbs the tree; he's coon. One boy barks; he's the coon dog. Another boy cuts down the tree; he's the coon hunter. It was coon that broke his leg when the tree fell. We got this coon learning from Dr. Lumsden, who mended coon's leg.

Some visitors in Edenton from the North are gathering our fishing statistics. This is a straw. "What we need is men."

Railroad work was resumed this side the river yesterday. This way, this way, gentlemen. Fall in, fall in, immigrants.

The Gov. Vance is to be the name of the new steamer now building at South Mills for the E. City and Norfolk trade via Dismal Swamp Canal.

There are now about sixty hands at work on the road this side of Pasquotank river, and the work will be now carried on on this side of the river until it is completed to the bridge. So friends, all around, throughout this section, whose prosperity is connected with the road, hold up your heads and be of good cheer, for the road will be built and completed in twelve months from date, and a new era of progress and prosperity will dawn upon us.

Iredell.

Within a few weeks, Iredell county will be enjoying the benefits of the stock law. The commissioners of the county held a meeting in Statesville Monday to receive reports from parties appointed to superintend the construction of the fence, with a view to ordering up the stock, as soon as the fence is completed. The report showed that there yet remained about a half a mile of the fence on the Rowan line to be built, and a few gates to be put at different points. The board, however, received assurances that the work would be finished by Saturday, and accordingly it is understood that they will meet next Monday and forbid the running at large of any stock from ten day after the date of the meeting.

Union.

Monday morning just before daybreak six colored prisoners confined in Union county jail at Monroe made their escape. Their names are Sam Rowland, Tom Staten, Grand Sumpter, Eli Carlock, Henry Crawford and Bob Belk, the first named of whom was held for the recent burglary of the house of ex-Sheriff A. F. Stevens, while all the others were held for larceny. A brother of Bob Belk is believed to have furnished the prisoners with a file, which they drew up from the outside by a string, and with which they filed the door of their cell from its hingers. Rowland took the wire from the tin cup in the cell and with this picked the lock which held his hand cuffs on him, the lock to the chain with which he was held to the floor, and that to a chain one end of which was around his neck and the other fastened to the wall.

Sheriff Hasty, of Union, offers a reward for the apprehension of the jail-birds. Rowland is copper-colored, chunky, 30 years old and weighs 175 pounds.

THE MISTLETOE BOUGH!

ITS PRESENTATION LAST NIGHT AT TUCKER HALL.

A Large and Fashionable Audience---Fine Acting and Rich Costumes---A Complete Success.

One of the most refined and highly cultivated audiences possible to the fashionable society of the city, filled Tucker Hall last night to witness the presentment of the Mistletoe Bough by a select party of amateurs, under the auspices of the Ladies Memorial Association.

The play is a pantomime and posseses much merit and fine scenic effect.

Mrs. R. G. Lewis, the President of the Association, assisted by Mrs. R. H. Jones, were the directors. They had a most accurate conception of the play in all its appointments and in the distribution of the caste, displayed fine judgment.

The leading characters were taken by Miss Mamie Lewis, the bride, who was exquisitely attired. Mr. W. P. Batchelor as Lord Lovell, Miss Lavine Haywood as the Baroness, Mr. Geo. Smedes as the Baron, and Miss Maggie Tucker as the Queen of May.

The scene in the Lumber Room was true to nature, and when the bride shut herself in the old oak chest and the lid fell with a heavy thud there was a shudder among the audience as if it were real.

Lord Lovell was impersonated with great feeling, and the sympathies of the audience were held throughout the whole play.

The closing scene where the chest is opened after a lapse of 50 years, was most strikingly rendered, and the vision of Lord Lovell, the appearance in midair of his bride, was a most enchanting spectacle.

Below is appended a synopsis of the play and the costumes worn on the occasion. The verses were sung by Mrs. Geo. C. Jordan as a prelude to each act. The whole entertainment was a most brilliant success.

SCENE I.

The Mistletoe hung in the Castle Hall,
The holly branch shone on the old oak wall;
And the Baron's retainers were blithe and gay,
And keeping their Christmas holliday.
The Baron beheld with father's pride
His beautiful child, young Lovell's bride;
While she, with her bright eyes, seemed to be
The star of the goodly company.
Oh! the Mistletoe bough!

Banquet Hall.—Baron and Baroness seated on dias. Entrance of the bridal party, preceded by children strewing flowers. The Baron invites the guest to the table. Toast to the Bride. The Minuet.

"I'm weary of dancing now," she cried;
"Here tarry a moment—I'll hide! I'll hide!
And Lovell be sure thou'rt the first to trace
The clue to my secret lurking place."

The Bride leaves the dance, and runs off to hide.

SCENE II.

Away she ran and her friends began
Each tower to search, and nook to scan!
And young Lovell cried, "Oh! where dost thou hide?
I'm lonesome without thee, my own dear bride!"
Oh! the Mistletoe bough!

Lumber Room.—The Bride enters in haste and timidly. Seeks a hiding-piece. Finds an old chests. It closes on her. Wedding guests enter. Bridesmade finds handkerchief, which she shows to Lord Lovell.

SCENE III.

They sought her that night, and they sought her next day!
And they sought her in vain when a week passed away!
In the highest, the lowest, the loneliest spot,
Young Lovell sought wildly, but found her not.
Oh! the Mistletoe bough!

The guests return after search. Dismay and distress of all. Lovell enters, leaning on a friend, and holding tho handkerchief in hand. Baroness faints. Bridesmaid kneel, with head in Baroness' lap.

SCENE IV.

FIFTY YEARS LATER.

And years flew by, and their grief at last
Was told as a sorrowful tale long past;
And when Lovell appeared the children cried—
"See! the old man weeps for his fairy bride!"
Oh! the Mistletoe bough!

The Village Green.—May-pole dance. Procession of children. Lord Lovell, now seventy years old, enters. Emotion of Lovell on seeing the May Queen. No, not the same! Bless her.

SCENE V.

At length, an oak chest that had long laid hid,
Was found in the castle—they raised the lid,
And a skeleton form lay mouldering there,
In the bridal wreath of the lady fair;
Oh! sad was her fate—in sportive jest
She hid from her lord in the old oak chest:
It closed with a spring—and her bridal bloom
Lay withering there in a living tomb.
Oh! the Mistletoe bough!

The Lumber Room again.—The old Housekeeper having put things to rights. She tells the story of fifty years ago. Child looking in the presses, drawers, &c., finds a bunch of rusty keys. Opens the chest. Is frightened and calls the Housekeeper, who sends for Lord Lovell. Fails to recognize the veil. Understands it all when he sees the ring.

THE CHAPEL HILL BURGLARS.

The Present State of Affairs with the Burglars---A Bottle of Laudanum---The Effect of a Report of a Pardon, Etc.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., May 8.—News has been brought here that some files and a bottle of Laudanum have been found in the cell occupied by the Chapel Hill burglars. Their lawyers appear to be making good use of the last two weeks allowed them to endeavor to effect their release.

On yesterday the report had reached Chapel Hill that the Goveronor had decided to pardon them, and that they were

ABOUT TO BE SET FREE.

Two ladies, who had heard this report, called a gentleman friend across the street and asked him, with the most evident alarm, in their whole manner, whether the report was true. Fortunately he had just heard reliable news to the contrary. It would be impossible to describe the mortal terror that would fall on this community, if it should be known to-day that they would be pardoned. When these men were arrested last fall a great load was lifted from the minds of this village. No one thought of going or some other reliable weapon of defence close at hand. Since their arrest this was all changed. People throw open their doors and windows without fear, and sleep soundly, not expecting to be awakened by the rude touch of burglars. The release of these men would create greater alarm than the same number of lions let loose in our midst. The feeling is well-nigh universal here that these men are guilty. So far as my observation and information go, the only persons who think them innocent are a portion of their relatives and most intimate friends. W.

TO BED WITHOUT A PISTOL

How the Cabinet Stand.

Correspondence Philadelphia Times.

The whole strength of the administration, so far, as Mr. Hayes and Mr. Sherman can control it, is and will continue to be used in the interests of the latter's candidacy. The members of the Cabinet, however, are not all easily controlled. McCrary, Secretary of War, is openly for Blaine. Key is for Grant, reserving for himself the second place on the ticket. Schurz, who has quarreled with Blaine, Conkling and Grant, will probably be for Sherman, since he can't well be for himself, being by birth a foreign subject. Evarts is most certainly not for Conkling, but he is personally very intimate with Blaine. It has been intimated that Evarts would not object to being thought of a candidate himself. Devens, Attorney General, is against Blaine, owing to the fact that they quarreled about a year ago, Blaine cutting him at a White House dinner; and he is not for Conkling. He may probably be set down for Sherman. Uncle Dick Thompson, the sweet-tempered, lovable old Secretary of the Navy, is rather slow in politics, and as it is said that certain Democrats in Bucks county are still for Andrew Jackson for President, so also may it be said that Uncle Dick is still for Senator Morton for President. It would be difficult to tell who his second choice would be.

The Governor of Ohio.

Notwithstanding that Gov. R. M. Bishop, of Ohio, is reported to have said that he came to New York on a purely business mission, the governor found time to call upon Col. Pelton, Mr. Tilden's nephew, at the Everett House. Governor Bishop thinks, as do his friends, that it is not always polite to be interviewed. The governor was looking remarkably well last evening when at the St. Nicholas hotel. Mr. Hendrickson, the governor's son-in-law was on the alert, and tried successfully to prevent the genial chief magistrate of Ohio from being interviewed. The governor said to a reporter, nevertheless, that he believed the Democrats could and would carry Ohio this fall, and all that was needed was harmony and concert of action. A friend of Gov. Bishop's said to a reporter that the Governor was confidently expecting a re-nomination for Governor of Ohio, and a second place on the Democratic Presidential ticket in 1880.

The World's Fair of 1883.

The Citizen's Committee to consider the subject of the proposed World's Fair, New York, of 1883 met last ntght, in the Windsor Hotel. Among those present were Thomas Windsor, Rufus Hatch, Samuel Haines, C. H. Adams, W. Holson, Judge Moses J. Leonard and a deputation of six gentlemen from Brooklyn, a delegation from the Brooklyn Board of Aldermen; William Darling, L. N. Fuller, J. Rhinelander Dillon, Gen. Charles Roome and many others. Mr. Elwood E. Thorne presided. Judge Leonard, on behalf of the citizens of Brooklyn, asked that the site for the proposed exhibition building be in Brooklyn. The East Side Hills, near Prospect Park, he said, would be just suitable as the site. There were about 120 acres, and more ground could be had if desired.

WASHINGTON.

THE STATUS OF AFFAIRS IN THE CAPITAL.

Martin Votes With the Democrats---Another Traitor---Cheerful Democrats---Sherman for President.

Special to the News.

WASHINGTON, D. C. May 8, 1879.

The House made quick work of the Ladd bill. It was agreed upon in caucus on Saturday, allowed to wander through the brains of the statesman on Sunday, after Church hours only; was introduced by Ladd, of Maine, on Monday morning, when the call of States was the order of business, referred to the Judiciary Committee which took action at once, and reported it back favorably on Tuesday, and passed it by 24 majority. Several attempts were made to fillibuster, but to no effect; the Democrats were too well drilled and solidly united.

Conger died hard; he fell in the last trench he disliked to give it up and acknowledge himself beaten. Martin the republican member from North Carolina, which caused his republican brethren to make some unkind remarks about him whilst the roll was being called on the final passage of the bill. Senator Edmunds took a stand on the republican side supporting himself on the outer railing of the bar of the House, watching every member when their names were called. When the vote of Martin, of N. C., was announced in the affirmative, the Green Mountain Senator turned his wise but bald head to one side and said, "there goes another rebel traitor to aid the cause of revolution." Hannibal Hamlin looked sad whilst Jim Blaine sat in a member's seat and smiled; on the extreme left wing sat Jack Logan, of Illinois, curling his long raven moustache, now and then casting a windward eye after Lowe, of Ala. The democrats this morning

VOTED WITH THE DEMOCRATS,

APPEAR CHEERFUL AND SERENE

over the situation. The republicans on the other hand appear equally as well pleased. As John Sherman is out of the city no expression can yet be drawn from the executive as to his future intentions on the veto power. Ohio politicians say that Sherman will be the republican nominee for Governor. If so, they declare his election sure, and in that event they assert that his race for the presidency next year is assured. Below I append the predictions of Senator Blaine on the new Senate in 1881. He says he has figured the matter closely, and believes his figures will come out true:

THE NEW SENATOR FROM NORTH CAROLINA.

is fast winning his way in the Senate as one of the most popular and able members of that body: There is only one thing urged against Vance here, and that is a very trifling matter which may possibly be overcome after he has more senatorial experience: He seemingly has a perfect antipathy for newspaper correspondents. Mr. Charles Vance his accomplished son and the efficient clerk to the committee on enrolled bills is not only winning favor as a business man and gentleman, but is even making rapid inroads among the leading belles of capital society. Report says that he has probably cast an eye of affection in the blue grass country. J. M. H.

A FEAST OF FEROCITY.

Theebau's Deeds of Murder in Burmah---The Murder of His Relatives by the King of Burmah.

The Rangoon correspondent of the London Daily News of the 28th ultimo gives a graphic account of the late horrors at Mandaly. The King's fears continued to gain upon him as one after another of the princes pined away and died in the frightful underground prisons of the palace, loathsome with the filth never removed since these dens were constructed, years ago. Fears of British intervention alone prevented him from putting them all to death months ago. Suddenly the news of the disaster in Zululand reached Mandalay. That apparently decided him, and a work of cold-blooded butchery began which will hardly find a parallel in history. At first the massacre went on according to old Burmese wont. The victims were led out of their cells in twos and threes, brought to shekho to the King, and then disposed of in ordinary Buddhist fashion. The head of the victim was tied down to his ankles, and a blow on the back of the neck from a heavy club put him out of pain. But this soon proved too mild a spectacle for the fiendish mind of Theebau. The Phoungzai Prince, whose insolent bearing English visitors to Mandalay will remember, on being brought to do reverence to his young brother—the King is past twenty-one years—professed an utter scorn for what could be done to him, and was flogged to death. The late King's eldest son—the truculent Mekhaya Prince, who used to look upon all foreigners as so much dirt under his feet—turned craven, and was taunted and driven to madness before receiving the blow which only half stunned him, when his writhing body was thrown into the gigantic trench dug to receive the victims. The massacre was carried on in a leisurely fashion, extending over several days, fiendish ingenuity being taxed to the utmost to devise fresh horrors.

Moungoke, the governor of Rangoon when it was captured by the British in 1856, had his nose and mouth filled with gunpowder, a light was applied, and he was then flung into the trench to be stifled by the bodies of succeeding victims. The daughter of the Nyoung Yan, a young girl of sixteen, was handed over to eight soldiers of the Royal Guard to be pitched insensible into the same heaving grave when they had gratified their brutal lust. The wife of one prince, far advanced in pregnancy, was ripped up, and the agonized husband was brought to see his wife and child once more before he died. After some days of this sort of thing the executioners got weary and hurried through their task. Little children were put in blankets and swung against the palace walls; women were battered over the head, as taking less trouble than tying them up so as to get a blow on the neck. Together about ninety persons are believed to have been put to death in this way. No one was allowed to leave the palace while the massacre was going on; but it seems certain that Mr. Shaw, our resident, was inside palace walls within a very short time of its commencement. He had been to a concert given by one of the ministers. One object of this pwai was to drown the cries of the victims. The remonstrance of Mr. Shaw, at the instance of our government, addressed to the King, was received with the utmost contempt, and he was told in as many words to mind his own business—that Burmese domestic affairs had nothing to do with the British government. The guard of thirty Sepoys conceded to him arrived a short time afterward, but was not allowed to land for a day, and the detachment for Mr. St. Barbe, at Bhomo, was not allowed to disembark at all, though that gentleman was at Mandalay.

There is no doubt that the lives of Mr. Shaw and all the English residents in Mandalay are in very great danger, and the act of one fanatic may bring about a general massacre. The most various accounts prevail as to the forces the King has at his disposal, but probably he could not muster more than 50,000 men, and of these the majority would be without firearms of any description, but there is no doubt that the account of the disaster to the Twenty-fourth at Rorke's Drift has produced a profound impression, and the Burmans are convinced they can easily repeat what "the negroes," for whom they have a consummate contempt, have done before them. There is a most uneasy feeling in Rangoon, and should there be war with Upper Burmah there would certainly be riots here. During the last few days emisssaries of the King have been going round the town summoning by sound of gong all natives of independent Burmah to return to their own country immediately, under penalty, in case of refusal, of the execution of all their families. Whether the arrival of large reinforcements here will have any deterrent effect remains to be seen.

The U. S. Mail on the Black Water at a Stand Still---High Officials Believed to be in the Ring.

Tarboro Southerner.

The little steamer "Gipsey," which has been carrying the U. S. mail on the Black Water between Franklin, Va., and Plymouth, N. C., since the steamer Chowan stopped carrying it not many months since, was seized at Plymouth by Mr. A. Fisher, Manager Washington & Jamesville Railroad, on April 21st, for indebtedness, and after arranging the matter, she steamed over to Edenton, where she was again seized by Deputy Marshal Brooks for libel. She is now in the custody of the Marshal. The people at the different postoffices along the route have not had any mail since the stoppage of this boat. There were lying in the postoffice at Franklin up to April 30th, over 100 mail pouches, 64 registered letters and over $30,000.

Shippers of fish cannot get the returns of sales. Business is almost paralyzed. Drafts and other paper has gone to protest. Many men have had their credit ruined, which means financial death. Farmers, fishermen and everybody else are justly complaining. All this trouble is said to be caused by the mail not being carried by a responsible party. When the Chowan carried it, there was but little or no complaint heard. Mr. Zed McDonald, the contractor, is said to have been allowed access to the Department files, and underbid the other parties only one dollar, thereby getting the contracts for one hundred and eighty routes! If this be so, then high officials in the Postoffice Department are guilty of combining with McDonald to defraud the government. This matter should be investigated thoroughly and the guilty parties visited with the heaviest penalty of the law. We will welcome the day when not only postoffice rings, but all others, shall take their proper places in the penitentiary.

A Cat's Costly Legs.

In India four men bought a quantity of cotton in copartnership. That the rats might not injure it they bought a cat, and agreed that each should own one of its legs. Each leg was then adorned with beads and other ornaments by its owner. The cat accidentally injured one of its legs, and the owner wound a rag round it, soaked in oil. The cat by chance set the rag on fire, and, being in great pain, rushed among the cotton bales, where she had been accustomed to hunt rats. The cotton was totally burned. The three other partners brought suit against the owner of the invalid leg to recover the value of their cotton, and the Judge decided that as the injured leg could not be used, the cat carried the fire to the cotton with her three remaining legs. They only were culpable, and their owners were required to compensate the owner of the injured leg for his share of loss.

Buncombe Concerns.

Correspondence of the News.

ASHEVILLE, May 7.—Judge Dick's court opened here yesterday, with 250 cases on the docket. All cases of illicit distilling before the last term, 17 submitted, who will be entitled to the amnesty. The jail is full of prisoners. Quite a number of witnesses in attendance who have tickets from the Commissioners are unable to get their pay, although they say that there are eight thousand dollars of government money in the hands of a broker, who will pay 50 cents on a dollar.

Farmers from Yancey, Haywood and Madison county report that the apple crop is not injured by the late frost.

The area of tobacco planted in Buncombe, Madison and Yancey is double that of last year.

Several buildings are being erected for boarding houses, and nearly every family will accommodate several.

It is thought that one of the brokers is in league with one of the officials in buying up witness tickets. S.

A Republican Legislature.

Press, Rep.

The people of the Commonwealth will read with dismay, mingled with mortification, the proofs of a prevalent spirit of corruption among our legislators, of efforts to bribe each other, of a low tone of morals pervading official circles, and of the flippant way in which criminal and disgraceful conduct is discussed, both in an out of the Legislature. Measures in themselves right and defensible in principle appear to have been subjected to every form of corrupt proposition, until members and journalists who, believing them right, have just fied them, are made to blush for the means with which they are now inseperably connected.

FEARFUL FIST FIGHT.

JOHNNY DWYER BECOMES THE CHAMPION OF AMERICA.

He Nearly Pounds the Life out of Jimmy Elliott---Description of the Battle Ground.

ERIE, Pa., May 8.—The Dwyer-Elliott prize fight came off on Longpoint Island, near the light-house, where Morrissey and Heenan fought in 1858. It was, without exception, the briefest and most terrific encounter that ever took place in the ring. In twelve minutes and forty seconds twelve rounds were fought, Dwyer punishing his adversary worse than any novice ever did, and winning by a back heel throw. The principals with their seconds, backers and friends, and members of the press, numbering in all about five hundred, started at daylight on the steamer George S. Frost, and the steam yachts S. H. Hunter and Welch, and the tugboat Thompson, with several sail boats in tow. The destination was reached at 10 o'clock, and at 11:20 Dwyer came ashore, wrapped in a thick ulster, and tossed his hat in the ring. His appearance was the signal for cheers from the crowd. He was heard to say, "I don't know how I can fight, but will do my best. It is my first appearance in a ring, and I feel good." Michael Costello and Barney Aaron appeared as his seconds, and Johnny Roach, of New York, as umpire. At 11:44 Elliott stepped into the ring with Joe Goss and Phil Clare his seconds. James Shannon, of Brooklyn, was announced as his umpire. Barney Aaron flipped a fifty-cent coin and won taking the corner where the sun shone on Dwyer's back. At this juncture, bets of 50 to 60 on Dwyer were made outside. Al. Smith, of Chicago, formerly O'Leary's backer, was suggested as referee, and was accepted by both sides amid hearty applause. The men then stripped to the waist, and preppared for the terrible struggle. Dwyer wore a light covering for his limbs, while Elliott had on knee-breeches and dark stockings. Both pugilists were in good condition, clean and muscular. Dwyer was the favorite and bets of two to one were made by several.

THE BATTLE.

Immediately both men left their corners and shook hands as a matter of form; then they separated and the most terrific mill on record began. The first attitude of each was perfection. Dwyer danced about, wagging his head as is his wont to do, holding his hands well up. Elliott held his right hand pretty close to his body, and worked out his left arm nearly straight. He always was near-sighted, and his squint was in striking contrast to the wide, open optics of Dwyer. Both men were cautious, Jimmy more so than Johnny. After considerable feinting and frequent attempts to draw each other out, they came close, and Dwyer planted his first blow on Elliott's left cheek, drawing blood. Jimmy blinked and got in a hard one on Dwyer's forehead. Then they clinched and punished one another severely on the body and face, until Elliott went over with Dwyer on top. Both claimed first blood, as it was visible on their bodies. The referee gave it to Dwyer. It was evident from the severe work that the battle would not last long, and would be a remarkable one.

Second round—Both came upsmiling, and the favorite forced the fighting, going into Elliott's corner. A rapid exchange of blows followed, and there was more severe pounding, Elliott getting his nose cut. Again they closed and punched each other hard ard furious, Jimmy being thrown. He was, apparently, no man to tackle Dwyer at wrestling. Both were carried to their corners breathing hard.

Third round—After a bit of sparring some effective blows were delivered by both. Dwyer then closed with his opponent, and a most desperate struggle ensued in Elliott's corner. It resulted in Jimmy's coming off second best, through Johnny's superior strength.

Fourth round—Both came up badly bruised, scratched and well winded. They began quietly, but Johnny was too anxious, and received in an unguarded moment a right-hander, which, however, did not hurt him much. He skipped around watching for a chance, and finally sent in a muzzler on Elliott's right cheek, inflicting another gash from which blood flowed freely. Jimmy dropped to escape further punishment.

Fifth round—Dwyer was gamey and again forced the fight, going over towards Jim's corner, where they had a lively skirmish for a few moments. Then the green man ducked quickly, and almost instantly got home with his right on Elliott's front piece, closing again. They fought hard on the ropes, Jimmy being eventually thrown.

Sixth round—It was no longer question as to who was the best man. Dwyer came up promptly, and after again getting on Elliott's dial with telling effect, Jim knelt as his only safety.

Seventh round.—Both worked well and got in some rattling blows on the head and face. Elliot finally got Dwyer on the ropes near the stake and gave him such a drubbing that he was glad of a chance to get down. He claimed foul for going, but did not press it, and the referee only cautioned Elliott.

Eighth round.—This was the quickest round in the battle. Dwyer exercised unusual coolness and skill, and closed on Elliott's left eye with a square knock-down blow.

Ninth round.—Both came up to the scratch very much exhausted and with disfigured countenances, Elliott's condition being painful. After an exchange of blows they closed and another bulldog fight ensued. They fell over the ropes, with Dwyer underneath, and Elliott so far forgot himself as to bite Johnny on the proboscis. They had to be lifted and carried to their corners. Foul was again claimed, but not allowed.

Tenth round.—This was hot and brief. They fought at close quarters, Elliott got the best of the struggle by downing Johnny and trying to do more gouging and biting.

Eleventh round.—The men were bad

A FALSEHOOD.

The Washington Post unwittingly publishes a falsehood that does all the parties concerned gross injustice. Thursday's Post contains the following:

There is another speck of war visible on the Congressional horizon. Hon. W. H. Kitchin, of North Carolina, is stated to be after his fellow member from the tar-heel state, Hon. D. L. Russell, Greenbacker. The trouble between these gentlemen grew out of some charges of fraud made through the official medium of the Congressional Record by the Hon. Russell, which the Hon. Kitchin concluded referred to him, and which, it will be remembered, he accordingly resented a few days ago in a very energetic speech on the floor of the House. Hon. R. F. Armfield, of the same state, has Mr. Kitchin's honor in charge, and has placed himself in communication with Mr. Russel's friends, with a view to arraigning their differences according to the rules of the code, or otherwise.

The statement is a lie out of the whole cloth. Upon the authority of HONS. R. F. ARMFIELD and W. H. KITCHEN, we pronounce the statement a canard—without the shadow of truth to sustain it. It my be funny to the flippant Post reporter. Other people look at it differently.

ANOTHER "MUD-CUT."

A Congress assembles in Paris next week to consider the trans-continental canal project between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

The scheme has held the attention of all the great engineers of the world for many years; for the canal must at once revolutionize modern commerce by making a comparatively straight circuit around the world, and completing the line begun by the Suez canal.

The real and seemingly insuperable obstacle is in the 16 or 17 miles between Lake Nicaragua and the Pacific, where the obdurate Cordilleras interpose their rocky wall. The elevation to be overcome there is 134 feet.

Commander Lull surveyed three routes over this western barrier; that which struck him as most feasible beginning at the mouth of the Rio del Medio and terminating at the Port of Brito. The Nicaragua scheme of M. Blanchet proposes to pierce this ridge. There is no sufficient source of water supply at a proper altitude to carry the canal over, even with a system of costly locks. The surveying has been done mostly at the expense of this country; the local governments have either granted the necessary franchises or expressed a willingness to do so, and the gigantic exterprise awaits the attacks of operators with the courage and the capital to go ahead.

WILLIAM LLOYD GARRISON.

Garrison, the fanatic, in his Boston letter uses the following language: "The two Senators from South Carolina at Washington, Hampton and Butler, are occupying seats to which they were not honestly elected, and their faces should become crimson every time they enter the Senate chamber. If they had their deserts, instead of presenting their visages in the capitol, Hampton would be in the penitentiary, and Butler lying in a grave of infamy."

Might not the fanatical Lloyd, while buzzing around the "hub of creation," imagining himself the motive power of the great chariot of State, find ample space for the exercise of his physiological genius in watching the physiognomy of him "that sits with crimsoned cheeks in the seat of a Washington? Or does he think it would be a fruitless task to attempt to incite a glow of shame on the cheeks of the man from Ohio; and his official subs—the creatures of his will around him? And furthermore; if the encroaching officials of the nation, with their many swindling aiders and advisors, were first served according to the priority of their claims to the merited distinction of a place in the penitentiary, where could a Hampton or a Butler find a berth in such an institution in the land? To overflowing fullness they would swell. Perverted Puritanism, that would whip a boy for whistling on Sunday, and invite a colored man to cut a white man's throat on Monday, because he did not feel it his religious duty to perform an annual pilgrimage to kiss old Plymouth rock, is not the element we want to restore harmony, build up the waste places of our land, and unite in a strong bond of brotherhood the once divided sections of our great country. The negroes of the South, quietly pursuing their avocations, gradually rising to a just appreciation of their rights and duties as citizens of the country, need none of the croaking sympathy of those who consider themselves too dignfied, religious and elevated, to do something for the miserable out-casts that pine in poverty and hunger, and die in the filthy lanes and cellars in their midst.

Hampton, Butler, and others of true national type, transcend in dignity of character, usefulness, and statesmanship, such envenomed extremists as Garrison and others that burrow in the littleness of their sectional darkness even as the luminary of day transcends in brilliancy the ignus fatuus flickerings of murky swamps. When such men as Garrison with visions too contracted to look to the great interests of this wide-spreading and prosperous nation, spend their time in shooting their envenomed tongues at such elevated and dignified characters as Hampton, Butler and a host of others that shine so conspicuously in the councils of the nation, we cannot help thinking of the dog that bayed the moon, serenely floating in its brightness in the heavens above him.

Talmage's Trial

The Brooklyn Presbytery met this afternoon, with the expectation of closing the case against T. DeWitt Talmage before night, but as the members took their seats and began to draw manuscript speeches from their pockets, it became evident that the presbytery would be obliged to hold another session or sit until morning. Out of seven opinions, including continuation of Dr. Van Dyke's, begun yesterday, four in favor of sustaining the specification and three for not sustaining the charges.

The Late M. de Villemessant.

The death of M. de Villemessant, of the Figaro, is an important event in the literary world, not because he was renowned in literature, but because he had been connected with a vast number of prominent writers of every shade of opinion for a very long time.

M. de Villemessant founded a paper which everybody read, and still reads, cruelly, I fancy, because it is entirely unlike any other. Even in Paris, where it soon found a good may imitators, there has never been any successful imitation of it. When Figaro first came into the world of journalism, with its poignant device taken from "The Barber of Seville"—Beaumerchois' exquisite comedy—it was even more unlike anything ever before conceived than it is now. Villemessant believes that people in Paris do not care for news—that they prefer the gossip which is as distinct from real news as conversation is from a treatise, and he was right when he began his career. Popular taste has somewhat changed since then; the Parisians have become serious and more willing to hear from the outside world; but there is still a class large enough to give Figaro a handsome circulation, which cares a great deal more about gossip and chit-chat than politics. De Villemessant "brought out" more men than almost any other editor. He was always engaging new men, independently of their political opinions, for which he did not care a rush unless they were likely to get him into trouble. He allowed Rochefort to make the empire tremble, and then found it expedient to ask M. Rochefort to be less crushing in his attacks on the Imperial policy. He had column after column on art literature, and music written by extremely clever and witty men, all of whom were most liberally paid. There was no end to his liberality in reporting a ball at Nice or a duel on the frontier of Belgium; but he really cared little to know what was doing across the channel.—Paris Letter in Boston Journal.

AS THE CZAR TELLS IT.

A Graphic Account of the Attempted Imperial Assassination.

St. Petersburg Corr. N. Y. Herald.

As soon as the Czar had entered the Winter palace after the attempt had been made to shoot him, he gave orders for all his friends and the high state officials to be admitted to his presence; and repeated to them the event which had just occurred in the following terms: "I was taking my usual walk this morning at 9o'clock, and, feeling rather tired, I was about to return to the palace, when I saw coming toward me, along the deserted flags, a good-looking young man of about thirty years of age. I looked at him mechanically as he approached, thinking the while if that man wished to kill me it would be very easy for him to do so. The strange presentiment was all the more inexplicable as there was nothing in the stranger's appearance to suggest his being a conspirator. He wore the dress of a clerk in the finance department and his demeanor was perfectly correct. As these thoughts were passing through my mind I saw him put his hand into the pocket of his cloak, take from it a pistol and aim at me. Instinctively I darted aside. The shot went off and missed me. Just as I was on the point of calling for help a second shot went off, and, thanks to the movement I made to right myself, it likewise missed its aim. I then called for help. Policemen appeared immediately. I walked straight toward the would-be assassin, who stood still a few paces off. His arm seemed suddenly paralyzed. The men rushed at him. He then seemed to recover himself, and fired two more shots, one of which unfortunately wounded one of my preservers, while the other hit the wall near me. At last the wretch was secured and disarmed. Thereupon, to tell you the truth, I felt rather faint, and I was brought back to the palace. Let us praise God, my friends. It is He who has spared my life."

How Queen Victoria Receives Her Mail.

Edmund Yates in London Times.

The train, which we may assume is bound due north, and which contains the royal messenger and his precious freight of mail boxes, has crossed the border, and before it has arrived at Perth, day has broken over the Scotch mountains. Balmoral is reached at last. It is a sweet summer day, and the Queen is seated in the tent on the lawn, where she frequently breakfasts in the warm weather, and remains for hours by herself or with her ladies. The sorting of the contents of the colossal mail bags will take upwards of an hour, and then Her Majesty will be informed that all is ready. Many letters are left for the royal hands to open. Thus a foreign sovereign, or one of the Queen's children, or it may even be one of her subjects whom she honors with her friendship, has addressed and epistle to Her Majesty, in the same way that friends, acquaintances and connections write to each other in ordinary life. But even this communication only reaches its proud destination by a slightly circuitous route. The autograph communication of the Czar of Kaiser would first go to the Russian or German embassy in London, would then be sent from the foreign office in Whitehall, and would travel from the foreign office to Balmoral in one of the above-mentioned boxes. In the same way will be created the letters of those members of the royal family who may from time to time be abroad, or for the matter of that at home. The Prince of Wales may employ the penny-post in writing to an acquaintance. His Royal Highness has resort to the state boxes when he addresses his august mother, and the letter is usually inclosed under cover to the Queen's secretary. There is not one paper in these boxes which the Queen will fail to examine. On many she will ask for more information; on some she will give definite opinions which cannot be confined within the limits of a sheet of note paper.

The Royal Eyes of England.

Most Englishmen know her majesty by sight, have seen the fine-cut features which have possibly become a little heavy by age, but which remain in a most remarkable degree aristocratic, though comparatively few, perhaps, have heard the clear ringing voice, which is delightful in ordinary conversation, but which becomes most painfully disagreeable and unpleasant when excited, or have seen the heavy-lidded eyes wake and flash lightning for a moment, and then sink back into disdainful repose. These flashes of light in the eyes are common to only three members of the royal family—the queen, the Prince of Wales, and the Princess Beatrice. It is an extraordinary phenomenon; the whole face changes for an instant when suddenly lit up with the excitement shed from the eyes, and the physiognomy is entirely altered for the moment. The late Lord Russell said once to Lord Dalling that he would rather face anything than her majesty's displeasure, for "it dazzled and shocked you like a sword suddenly unsheathed in the sunlight." The metaphor is apt and true and a friend of ours who was dining at the royal table at Windsor on one occasion when her majesty was suddenly displeased with a certain member of her family, who we will not name, has often assured us that her face changed so for an instant as to be almost unrecognizable.—Whitehall Review.

Sherman Men South.

The offices in the South are being loaded down with Sherman men, and they will be expected to do their duty and set up delegates to the next Republican convention in favor of Sherman for President. A delegate from North Carolina will count just as much in the convention as a delegate from Iowa. Grant is just now losing ground in the South, but a trip through that country after his return next August would set the country wild.

By the way, Mr. McGehee had no money in the Raleigh Observer, and was only nominally a preferred creditor, as trustee.

Secretary Sherman's Aspirations.

A Chicago Times correspondent, who interviewed Secretary Sherman at Mansfield, Ohio, reports him as saying that he had no thought of being a candidate for Governor of Ohio, and that either Foster or Taft could carry the State, but admitted that if nominated by acclamation he would consent to run. He also said that while he should support Grant if nominated, he had presidential aspirations, and if he could be assured of the solid vote of Ohio in the national convention he would not hesitate to announce himself as a presidential candidate.

LIVER PILLS

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax. the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

GOOD MORNING!

NEW GOODS

AT

A. CREECH'S.

CUSTOMERS, THIS ADVERTISEMENT is for your interest, so read carefully. I have received my stock of Spring Goods for 1879, and it affords me pleasure to say to you that every DEPARTMENT is full and complete, with New Goods, from Coarse to Fine Fabrics, bought by myself in person from the Importers and Manufacturers by the package.

And here allow me to say that integrity is the vital spark of commercial life, and brains, the big cog-wheel that runs the tireless Engine, and Cash is that earnest and solid stuff that will buy goods cheap, and still in the Brains of the smartest merchants, there lurks a puzzle as to when goods will get to hard pan or bottom prices.

But I think every merchant of experience will coinside with me in saying that goods have not been sold within the last twenty-five years so low as they are this spring, and I feel confident in saying Goods, Wares and Merchandise have reached their bottom prices.

As many of them advanced and are still advancing, and it will only take a little money and financial skill to save money by buying goods before they further advance.

And in connection with this, let me say that you see all kinds of advertisments, some selling at cost and below, and some say the bottom's out, and goods at hard-pan prices and various other kinds. But let me tell you,

That I suppose at least a thousand persons at this writing will know that is the place, and I expect to tell ten thousand more within the next forty-eight hours to come to

CREECH'S

Creech's to Buy their GOODS

as I want customers wherever to be found, and buyers with money to spare, so when you come to town, down town or up town, come to

CREECH'S.

Dunlop & McCance Mills,

ERECTED 1853.

OFFICE: 1213 CARY STREET,
Richmond Va.,

We have recently introduced into our mill elaborate and costly Machinery, for manufacturing the

FLOUR

indicated by our trade-marks, to the Superior Quality,

OF WHICH

We ask the Attention of Dealers and Consumers.

The "Dunlop Patent Family"

meets a want long felt Flour having both color and strength. Its whiteness cannot fail to please the most fastidious taste, while its glutinous properties insure a light and nutritious bread. The advance in the art of milling, by which Patent Flour is made, though fast established in the South, is here much needed—by housekeepers, to make up for culinary shortcomings; by bakers, to give strength and quality to the reliable and inferior grades, which can only be used to advantage by mixing with

New Process Flour.

Consumers should be Educated,

FOR HEALTH AND CONVENIENCE,

To Use A Better and Consequently More Expensive Grade of Flour.

and when the fact is realized that the cost of one dollar more per barrel amounts in their daily consumption of three or four pounds to a difference of one and a half or two cents, they will hardly regard the additional expenditure an extravagance. To few people buying Flour by the barrel does it occur that this important article of human food, used at every meal, costs less per day than almost any other on their bill or fare.

Of our

"McCance New Process Family," and

"McCance News Process Extra,"

we can confidently say they are unsurpassed by any other brands to be had for the same price; and will certainly give entire satisfaction to those who do not fancy paying the figures which Patent Flour must command to induce its manufacture.

DAILY NEWS

A LITTLE WITTY.

The watchword of life: Tick.

The oldest verse in existence—the Universe.

The man who attempted to assassinate Booth was a dry goods clerk. He didn't understand Marking down his goods.

Judge: "Have you anything to offer to the court before sentence is passed on you?" Prisoner: "No, Judge. I had ten dollars, but my lawyers took that."

"Great heavens!" he murmured, as the dealer named the price, "I don't want a whole strawberry; I only want a small slice off the rind."

The London Punch will be thirty-eight years old in July, and will endeavor to celebrate the event by constructing a joke without the aid of I, J, Italics, diagram or foot notes. If it succeeds it will be a proud day for merry England.

Extract from a young lady's letter: "And, do you know, Maud and I are quite sure that Capt. Popple had taken far too much champagne at the ball, for he took out his watch and looked hard at the back of it, and then muttered: "Blesh my shoul! I hadn't any idea it was that time o'night."

A story is going the rounds of the press about a man who, upon waking up one morning and finding thieves had stolen his entire saw-mill, thanked heaven that the robbers had left his water power. That man was a philosopher and should be recognized as such.

Man who is endeavoring to strike the other man for a $10 bill Saturday at 1 o'clock—"Now, old fel,' let's have the X. You know what the Bible says—'Help one another.'" His friend, with a sad, sweet smile—"Oh, yes, I know; but, I say, you know, you're always the 'nother,' you are."

An American gulps down a glass of lager as if he believed his stomach was on fire and a prize depended on speedy extinguishment. A German lifts the sparkling amber to his lips and sips as though afraid to impose a too great a burden on so good a friend as his stomach.

Zero.

It has been well and truthfully said that "a good refrigerator is a necessity in every household," and it would be equally true to add—and there are few refrigerators to whom the word good can be applied. It is easy to refrigerate. It can be done without a refrigerator at all, by a copious supply of ice. The great desideratum is to secure refrigeration with the least possible waste of ice, and without deterioration of goods; and in one or other, and often in both these points, the majority of those now in use are defective. Mr. A. M. Lesley, 372 Sixth Avenue, New York, in the Zero refrigerator, has secured both these objects, and if practical tests, the endorsement of hundreds who have bought them, and the decisions of experts at the great Centennial Exposition, and numerous other similar occasions, have any merit in them, it leaves nothing to be desired. There are over 30,000 now in use, and all agree that it is the ne plus ultra of refrigerating success for family purposes.

It is an excellent corrective of Indigestion I have used it with prompt beneficial results.

Rev. Dr. Mangum, Prof. Univ. of N. C.
I concur with Bishop Doggett in his estimate of the Vest Pocket Cure.

Rev. Drs Jeter, Broaddus, Dickinson, (Bapt.)
It is endorsed by the direct personal testimony of men of national fame and strictness of speech. It is not too much to say that no medicine ever had such support in its favor as a specific. The word of any one of the eminent divines who underwrite this anti-tote to dyspepsia has deserved weight. Their united witness joined with the experimental use and approval of the preparation by well-known physicians, removes all doubt. It is beyond question, a wonderful therapeutical agent.—Editors Religious Herald, Va.

Chaplain Randolph Macon College, Va.
Many cases of Dyspepsia within my knowledge have been cured by it. Cramps, Colics, Headaches and all sorts of pains from indigestion yield promptly to it. The cures of this sort are innumerable.

Rev. R. L. Dabney, L. L. D.
Col., Va.
It is highly esteemed here by the regular Medical Faculty and the people. It is excellent for indigestion and flatulent Colic, sedative, soporific, tonic, slightly aperient, without nausea.

Rev. R. F. Woodward, P. E., Na. Cont.
About twelve years I suffered from Dyspepsia. Failing in with this remedy, I gave it a fair trial. After its use I could eat anything with impunity. I am sure I am indebted to this medicine for what of health and physical comfort I have had for the last sixteen years. I have known many since to be relieved by its use.

Rev Robert W. Watts, A. M., Va.
I have used the mixture in my family for years, and have taken it for a Dyspepsia Colic, which threatened my life, and was cured, eating any diet without hurt. I have recommended it to other sufferers with happiest results. It is the best tonic and positive I ever knew. For protration from Dyspepsia or Liver Disease it is invaluable.

J. D. Eggleston, M. D., Va.
It is a highly valuable remedy, and is more extensively used than any single article in the whole list of medicines, so far as I observed in my practice, for all the complaints to families from indigestion, I use it and recommend it.

Editor Richmond Christian Advocate.
This remedy is of tried virtue. I have seen Dyspepsia cured completely by it. It seems to be an anti tote to our "Nation's Disease." The ingredients are not kept by the apothecaries, and have been difficult to get.

THE GENUINE
DR. C. McLANE'S
Celebrated American
WORM SPECIFIC OR VERMIFUGE.

SYMPTOMS OF WORMS.

THE countenance is pale and leaden-colored, with occasional flushes, or a circumscribed spot on one or both cheeks; the eyes become dull; the pupils dilate; an azure semicircle runs along the lower eye-lid; the nose is irritated, swells, and sometimes bleeds; a swelling of the upper lip; occasional headache, with humming or throbbing of the ears; an unusual secretion of saliva; slimy or furred tongue; breath very foul, particularly in the morning; appetite variable, sometimes voracious, with a gnawing sensation of the stomach, at others, entirely gone; fleeting pains in the stomach; occasional nausea and vomiting; violent pains throughout the abdomen; bowels irregular, at times costive; stools slimy, not unfrequently tinged with blood; belly swollen and hard; urine turbid; respiration occasionally difficult, and accompanied by hiccough; cough sometimes dry and convulsive; uneasy and disturbed sleep, with grinding of the teeth; temper variable, but generally irritable, &c.

Whenever the above symptoms are found to exist,
DR. C. McLANE'S VERMIFUGE will certainly effect a cure.

IT DOES NOT CONTAIN MERCURY
in any form; it is an innocent preparation, not capable of doing the slightest injury to the most tender infant.

The genuine DR. McLANE'S VERMIFUGE bears the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrapper.

DR. C. McLANE'S
LIVER PILLS
are not recommended as a remedy "for all the ills that flesh is heir to," but in affections of the liver, and in all Bilious Complaints, Dyspepsia and Sick Headache, or diseases of that character, they stand without a rival.

AGUE AND FEVER.

No better cathartic can be used preparatory to, or after taking Quinine.
As a simple purgative they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.
Each box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.
Each wrapper bears the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS.
Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

LIVER

This important organ weighs but about three pounds, and all the blood in a living person about three gallons passes through it at least once every half hour, to have the bile and other impurities strained or filtered from it. Bile is the natural purgative of the bowels, and if the Liver becomes torpid it is not separated from the blood, but carried through the veins to all parts of the system, and in trying to escape through the pores of the skin, causes it to turn yellow or a dirty brown color. The stomach becomes diseased, and Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation, Headache, Biliousness, Jaundice, Chills, Malarial Fevers, Piles, Sick and Sour Stomach, and general debility follow. MERRELL'S HEPATINE, the great vegetable discovery for torpid liver, causes the liver to throw off from one to two ounces of bile each time the blood passes through it, as long as there is an excess of bile; and the effect of even a few doses upon yellow complexion or a brown dirty looking skin, will astonish all who try it—they being the first symptoms to disappear. The cure of all bilious diseases and Liver complaint is made certain by taking HEPATINE in accordance with directions. Headache is generally cured in twenty minutes, and no disease that arises from the Liver can exist if a fair trial is given.

Also, Colds, Cough, Asthma, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the throat and lungs. Read the testimonials of the Hon. Alexander H. Stephens, Gov. Smith and Ex-Gov. Brown of Ga., Hon. Geo. Peabody, as well as those of other remarkable cures in our books, free to all at the drug stores, and be convinced that if you wish to be cured you can be by taking the GLOBE FLOWER COUGH SYRUP. BLOOD

Grave mistakes are made in the treatment of all diseases that arise from poison in the blood. Not one case of Scrofula, Syphilis, White Swelling, Ulcerous Sores and Skin Disease in a thousand, is treated without the use of Mercury in some form. Mercury rots the bones, and the diseases it produces are worse than any other kind of blood or skin disease can be. Dr. PEMBERTON'S STILLINGIA & QUEEN'S DELIGHT is the only medicine upon which hope of recovery from Syphilis, Mercurial diseases is based, and the only one ever honorably founded, and the only one Queen's Delight will be paid the proprietors if Mercury, or any impure or not purely vegetable and harmless can be found in it.

The Mendelssohn Quintette Club.

We are gratified in being able to announce the appearance of this celebrated club once more in our city on the occasion of their return from their very successful southern tour. They appear at Tucker Hall on Wednesday evening the 21st inst., accompanied by the charming soprano, Mrs. H. F. Knowles. We deem it unnecessary to say aught in commendation of the performances of the Mendelssohn Quintette Club, they being admitted by the highest representatives of the art of music in America, and having enjoyed a continuous existence of twenty-nine years. The manner in which they were received by our citizens on the occasion of their former visit, a few months ago, led to this second visit, and we feel satisfied the expectations of the club will be fully realized. During their Southern tour they have met with unprecedented success; and the following extracts from a few of our contemporaries will show the manner of their reception and what was thought of their performances:

A Norfolk cotemporary says: Last night the Opera House was packed by one of the most fashionable audiences ever gathered there. Ladies filled the dress circle, parquette, orchestra chairs and even the gallery, where scores of them found seats, which they were unable to obtain in the lower portion of the house. Norfolk and Portsmouth turned out in force to hear the famous Quartette Club, and the performances fully justified all that has been said of them. Each performer seemed to be a perfect master of his instrument. Mrs. Knowles has a splendid voice and soon won the hearts of her audience. She was encored twice.

The Chattanooga Times says: "The largest audience, with one exception, that ever gathered in James' Hall, was present last night to listen to the Mendelssohn Quintette Club. It was such an audience as every Chattanoogan could afford to be proud of. Every nook and corner of the paraquette was packed, and away up in the gallery the brilliant throng of ladies and gentlemen drank in the sweet music. When the curtain rose, and the first sound of the overture filled the hall, the immense throng was hushed to perfect silence, broken only by the enthusiasm that burst forth at the conclusion of each piece. Mrs. Knowles is not only a beautiful woman, but a charming vocalist, with a pure mezzo-suprano of great tenderness and flexibility. Her excellent vocalization will not be forgotten by our people."

The Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle says: "The good taste of the people of Augusta led them to give the Boston Quintette Club another crowded house at the matinee yesterday. It is seldom that they have the opportunity to enjoy such a genuine treat of art music—music rendered by those who have made it a life-long study, and arrived at a degree of excellence attainable only by devoting themselves assiduously to it, but have natural talents—and talents of the very highest order—as well. * * It is not often that such perfection is found in a musical club—perfection as a whole and perfection in every individual part.—The overtures and quartettes are master pieces of skill and harmonious blending of sound, while the solos, on whatever instrument performed, are exquisite productions."

The Raleigh NEWS is rapidly attaining a position in the front ranks of journalism. We note its progress with pleasure.—Goldsboro Mail.

Promises kept inspire confidence, and Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup never promised relief in the diseases of childhood without at once effecting it. Hence the popular reliance upon it. Price 25 cts. a bottle.

The principal thing we have to rejoice over on the Fourth of July, is the encouraging fact that the day doesn't come oftener than once a year. We always cherish the memory of our forefathers with a deeper affection when we think of this. We entertained an entirely different opinion when we were a boy.

After Flapping their Ears.

Washington Post.

Now Conger and his crowd are grumbling because Mr. Hayes let them go on braying, and flapping their ears, after he had decided to accept the conditions.

A Backbone that's too Stiff.

Washington Post.

A certain amount of elasticity is necessary in the osseous tissues. A back bone that is too stiff is apt to yield to pressure too abruptly.

The Precise Programme.

Richmond Dispatch.

The Congress is going to do right. It is going to pass the army appropriations, and it is going to pass bills destroying the right of the President to march soldiers to the polls, and to intrude supervisors there, and to prescribe test-oaths, and leave to him the responsibility of acting upon them unincumbered with other subjects.

General Legislation Suggested.

Denver Democrat.

If Congress is compelled to remain in session to please the whim of a Republican minority, general legislation will be in order. Among other reforms attempted will be a revision of the silver law. Since Mr. Chafee is no longer in the Senate to misrepresent the principal silver-producing state, some important changes may be expected.

A New Use for Cork.

The new cork floor covering—Linoleum—has ingratiated itself so rapidly into public favor that it is superceding all appliances heretofore employed for a like purpose. Its most remarkable feature is its "extraordinary durability;" in this respect no other floor covering can compare with it. It is equally desirable for dining rooms, halls, churches and every variety of building. Kept by all first-class carpet dealers. The only genuine article has "Linoleum" on the back of every square yard.

When Sherman is Weak.

Phila. Times Corr.

Sherman, as a Presidential candidate, will find himself very weak in New York. If nominated he could not carry that State. The city would throw up a majority of forty or fifty thousand against him, and the Wall street money would be felt all over the State. The railroads and the national banks, two powers stronger than the slave power ever was, will oppose him most bitterly. The influences with Wall street would certainly lose him New York, and without that State he could never be elected President. Grant, on the contrary, would have all the money interests on his side, including the railroads, the telegraphs, the national banks and all moneyed institutions.

Sherman Again Declines the Governorship.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 7.—Hon. John Sherman, Secretary of the Treasury, arrived here this afternoon. He is very reticent to reporters, and not inclined to speak of his own political prospects. He was called upon by the Republican members of the Legislature. This evening the Secretary was tendered a reception by ex-Gov. Dennison, and was also serenaded at the Weil House, where he made a short speech. He alluded to Louisiana and South Carolina, but principally confined himself to the money question. He called on his party to not vote for him for Governor, that he intended to remain in his present position until the Government money was receivable at par the world over, and our financial condition was on a most firm basis.

The Celebrated Seven Springs Iron and Alum Mass.

This is decidedly the most useful, besi les being the most efficient Family Medicine ever placed within the reach of any people. Its reputation extends far and wide, and its great popularity is due entirely to its own merits. For relieving Sick and Nervous Headache, it may be truly said, to have no equal. Dyspeptics find it just the remedy for their troubles. Mothers and daughters have long since discovered in its use a "panacea" for their worst ills; and now we have the testimonies of two eminent ministers of the gospel, from Southern cities, setting forth its specific effects in other more dreaded and troublesome diseases.

Rev. John F. Mayne, Theological Seminary, Columbia, S. C., writes: "Am afflicted with that terrible disease, 'Diabetes;' am using the 'Seven Springs Mass' with a considerable degree of relief; is the only remedy I have yet found to suit my case; want to continue its use until a cure is effected if possible. Send worth of the enclosed P. O. order immediately.

JNO. F. MAYNE.
Columbia, S. C., Jan. 23d, 1879.

Unheard of Bargains!

Who tries his best to please his friends
And in his labors never ends,
Bargains he'll give you when you call
For No. 10 is all and all.
Of other houses you hear them talk;
In Fayetteville street just take a walk
And only ask for No. 10,
Kept by the most ingenious of men,
And when his friends by chance drop in
Then forth he comes, Lord what a grin,
And to their wondering eyes displays
Such heaps of brackets and window shades.
His pictures are exposed to public view
And a variety of cord to suspend them too,
His looking glasses and toilet cases
Will help adorn your forms and faces;
Picture frames and mouldings too
In great variety, black, brown and blue.
His window cornices and lambrequins fine,
Will make your rooms and parlor shine.
Perforated mottoes, and white holly baskets.
And every other sort of stuff,
Of which he hopes to have enough.
So now he bids you all adieu
And wishes a happy new year too,
And not forget
